BUD WALTON ARENA

The Razorbacks played in Bud Walton Arena for the first time in November, 1993. Designed to replicate the intimate and intimidating atmosphere of Barnhill Arena, the result was a fan-friendly 19,200 seat arena whose acoustics focus the roar of the Razorback fans to the floor. Among the other features are 48 private sky-boxes, a lower-level capacity of 12,250 and the furthest seat closer in Walton than the worst seat in 9,000-seat Barnhill.

Bud Walton Arena houses a deluxe museum on the ground floor that includes a tribute to Arkansas Men's Basketball 1994 NCAA championship and multiple Final Four appearances, Arkansas Women's Basketball 1998 NCAA championship team, as well as the history of Razorback basketball and much more. To celebrate its 10th anniversary, Walton underwent a multi-million dollar renovation highlighted by a new custom scoreboard in the shape of a basketball hoop, featuring four video screens and an LED ring at the top used to display game statistics. In 2008 Walton Arena underwent another upgrade when the lower bowl side-line seats were upgraded and ribbon boards were added.

CAMERA POLICY

Point-and-shoot cameras are permitted inside the arena. Professional camera equipment, camera bags or cameras with long telephoto lenses longer than 6 inches and video cameras are prohibited inside the arena.

CONCESSIONS
